

Industrial property rights

Intellectual property and expertise are a company's creative capital. At Redeker Sellner Dahs, we understand their value and advise you in the areas of copyright and industrial property rights.

More at www.redeker.de

REDEKER | SELLNER | DAHS

Protection & enforcement

In an increasingly digitalised world, the protection of intellectual property and know-how is becoming ever more important. Our advice focuses on the protection of your creative achievements and the safeguarding of your interests in the fields of copyright, industrial property rights and unfair competition.

Practice areas (selection)

- Protection strategies for intellectual property
- Copyright law and artificial intelligence (AI)
- Licensing and contract law
- Law enforcement and dispute resolution
- Copyright protection on digital platforms
- Advice on unfair business practices
- Legal editing

Our clients

Our clients include domestic and foreign companies from a wide range of industries, from listed companies to start ups, including advertising agencies, internet service providers and film productions. We also advise associations and collecting societies as well as scientific institutes, authorities, agencies and other public sector organisations.

More about
Industrial property rights and copyright